- Walt Disney World requires advance reservations to attend the theme parks. We strongly recommend that all family and fans (spectators) register separately from the team.
- To help manage park capacity, the Walt Disney World Resort uses a Disney Park Pass reservation system. To make theme park reservations, you will need a My Disney Experience account and a valid theme park admission linked to it. Reservations are limited in capacity, subject to availability and not guaranteed until confirmed.
- You will NOT need a reservation to enter ESPN Wide World of Sports for competition, but you must link your ticket to enter the complex.
- If your top choice park reaches capacity, you can make a reservation for another park and then hop to your top choice after 2 p.m. that day.
- NO changes or upgrades are possible after ticket orders have been placed. NO Park Hopper® tickets will be sold on-site at Worlds
- Parks may reach capacity so be sure to make your payment early!
- If you have multiple families ordering tickets, we suggest that each family order their own so that they can manage their own park reservations.
